

"Bridging Differences"
By Vivika S. Bakshi

"Bridging Differences" is a poignant artistic representation of the shared human experience. Through a minimalist black and white palette, the artwork, drawn by an 11-year old, features two profiles, one of a parent and the other of their child, locked in a gaze of mutual recognition and understanding. This visual narrative speaks volumes about the intrinsic connection between individuals, regardless of their differences. It serves as a powerful reminder that discrimination and prejudice are rooted in a lack of understanding of the 'other,' and through empathy and storytelling, we can bridge these divides.

This piece encapsulates the artist's vision and perspective, offering a youthful yet profound insight into the importance of empathy and acceptance in fostering a more inclusive society.
